Not Included: Commercial air travel to Manaus, Brazilian visa, tackle, personal items, tips, meals in Manaus and extra hotel nights if applicable.

TRAVEL/DOCUMENTS/TRAVEL INSURANCE

A valid passport and visa are required to enter Brazil.

We recommend Trivisa for processing the Brazilian visas. Start the visa process well in advance of your trip. The process is very secure and expeditious. Please visit their website for complete requirements and details—www.trivisa.com or call (877) 876-3266.

You will fill out a “tourist card” while on the Miami/Manaus flight prior to landing in Brazil. KEEP your stamped copy of this tourist card after proceeding through customs—customs officials can hassle or fine you if you don’t have the receipt when exiting the country.

For travel insurance we recommend that you contact Kevin Martin at Martin Travel Services — kmartin@martintravelservices.com or (800) 627-8468.

Global Rescue provides unparalleled emergency medical services and is the only company that conducts field rescue and medical evacuation from the point of illness or injury back to your home country hospital of choice. In addition, a Global Rescue membership also includes 24/7 access to critical care paramedics, and in-house physicians backed by specialists from Johns Hopkins Medicine, the leading hospital in the U.S. since 1990.

Before traveling, we recommend you take out a Global Rescue membership. If you have any questions or would like to sign up, please visit www.globalrescue.com or call Global Rescue at (800) 381-9754.

TRAVEL LOGISTICS

Currently American Airlines offers non-stop flight service from Miami, Florida to Manaus, Brazil.

Anglers fly to Miami on Friday in time to make the afternoon flight to Manaus, arriving in the evening. Anglers overnight and travel to the fishing area Saturday morning via air charter and fast boats. Anglers are returned to Manaus the following Saturday in time to make the late-evening American flight back to Miami, arriving early Sunday morning.

For assistance with reservations, please contact Kevin Martin at Martin Travel Services — kmartin@martintravelservices.com or (800) 627-8468.

IMPORTANT When making your travel reservations, please be sure you have plenty of time between flights to make your connections. If you miss your flight to Manaus, you will miss your charter flight to the fishing area and it will be very costly for you to get a special (off-schedule) charter.

Keep in mind you are traveling to the Amazon rain forest (the world’s largest wilderness), and, as in all outdoor trips, your fishing and travel logistics depend somewhat on the weather and bush runway conditions. There may be delays. Your outfitter will do everything possible within safety parameters to get you to your flights on time, but South American Fly Fishing and River Plate Anglers will not be responsible for any extra expenses incurred from commercial or charter flight delays, cancellations, missed connections, etc., due to weather, mechanical problems or any other factors.

PRE-TRIP INFORMATION

MANAUS

Manaus was founded in 1669 by the Portuguese as a small fishing village. Its name is of Indian origin and its literal translation is “Mother of God.” Situated just 3 degrees below the equator and over 1000 miles inland, it is one of the busiest ports where cargo ships distribute their goods throughout the Amazon basin. With the discovery of rubber trees in the area in the 1850s, Manaus flourished for a period of about 20 years, from 1890-1910, and was known as the “Paris of the Jungle.” Today, Manaus is a duty-free zone and center for ecotourism in the Amazon.

CAMP ACCOMMODATIONS

The deluxe floating safari camp accommodations feature spacious dining and lounge areas. Pairs of anglers sleep in 12' x 21' air-conditioned bungalows, each with an en suite shower, toilet and sink, and twin beds, table, chairs, and lights. Guests enjoy evening cocktails while watching sunsets over the river's white sand beaches and grassy river bars.

You will travel from the safari camp to nearby lagoons and river tributaries via 21-foot specially designed shallow-running aluminum boats equipped with two casting platforms, outboards, trolling motors, and comfortable swivel seats. The guides are good boat handlers, very polite and understand fishing English. Bilingual cards will be sent to you prior to your departure to aid in communication.

CURRENCY

Brazil's hotels and shops readily accept U.S. dollars, so there is really no need to exchange money.

WEATHER

Mid-day temperatures in the Amazon range from 85° to 95°. Generally there is intense sun during the day, so please be mindful of dehydration and overexposure to the sun. The camp manager will stock your boat's cooler with your preference of drinks and water. Make sure to wear a hat and use sunscreen, sunglasses, and perhaps long sleeves and pants. At night the temperature drops to 65° to 75°.

Although you will be fishing in the dry season, there are occasional and sometimes frequent rain showers and thunder storms which can adversely affect water levels and your fishing success. You are in the rain forest. If it does rain and create higher water level conditions, this can affect the fishing and occasionally allow our competitors to encroach on our private/exclusive concessions.

FOOD & BEVERAGE

A breakfast buffet is typically served at 6:00 a.m. Pancakes, eggs, toast, fresh fruit, sausage, cereal and fresh coffee are all standard fare. Lunch is typically fixed (box-style) by each angler in the morning before fishing. We encourage everyone to stay on the river the entire day to maximize fishing results. Appetizers are usually on the table as soon as anglers return from the day's fishing. Dinner is served around 7:00 p.m. The dinner service features steaks, chicken, fresh fish and many local specialties. The camp supplies soft drinks, local liquor, beer (limited for safety reasons to six per person during the fishing day) and wine with meals. The camp provides factory bottled water.

LANGUAGE

Brazil is the only Latin American country where Portuguese is spoken as the native language. Grammatically, Portuguese is quite similar to Spanish, but the spoken language/word pronunciation is very distinct. Most individuals fluent in Spanish can converse fairly well with a Brazilian native. The camp has a full-time bilingual host.

HEALTH/INSECTS

The rivers we fish have a high tannin concentration due to the forest's leaf decay, and do not encourage the growth of insect eggs and larvae, but some bugs are occasionally encountered, mainly no-see-ums (gnats) which can be irritating, along with the occasional bee, mosquito or wasp. Be sure to travel with an EPI-Pen if you are allergic to stings.

We suggest you contact your doctor regarding inoculations recommended for travelers to the Amazon, or log on to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) website at www.cdc.gov/travel. Doctors may suggest vaccinations for typhoid, tetanus, hepatitis and yellow fever.

Brazil does not require travelers entering Brazil to present proof of yellow fever vaccination.

Also, antibiotics and antiseptic medicines such as Polysporin are always a good idea to avoid infections from cuts and scrapes.

GRATUITIES

For the guides and staff, we suggest a tip of $400 for the week. Half can be given directly to the guide and half to the camp host to be divided up among the staff. Tipping is done at the end of the trip—U.S. dollars are accepted.

PRE-TRIP INFORMATION

LIMITS ON BEER CONSUMPTION

For safety reasons, River Plate Anglers allows six beers per angler, per fishing day. (This is in addition to evening beer, cocktails and wine.)

PEACOCK BASS

Peacock Bass is a generalized name for the large bass-like gamefish native to tropical South America. They are actually a subspecies of the family Cichlidae. Countless color variations exist throughout their range. All species are commonly called tucunare in Brazil and Peru, while other Spanish speaking countries use the term pavon. The peacock tucanare (Cichla temensis), better known as azul or paca is the largest of the species, with an average weight of six or seven pounds. Ten- to fifteen-pound fish are very common, and twenty+ pounders are hooked each week. This fish has a unmistakable mottled black patch directly behind its eye. Body coloration and markings vary greatly. Three vertical black bars are usually visible. Often, horizontal white spots are present.

The butterfly tucanare (Cichla ocellaris) is the smallest and most numerous species in the Amazon basin. This fish has three different color phases, but the butterfly primarily seen has three black, oscillated spots (about the size of a half dollar) running along its lateral line. There are many other jungle species that are equally impressive—both in beauty and fighting ability. Depending on location pacu, pirapitinga, jacunda, apapa, tambaqui, pirarucu, bicuda, picua, piranha, aruana and pescada can be taken.

CATCH AND RELEASE

To further ensure the survival of released peacock bass, trophy peacock bass weighing 16 pounds or more will be weighed in the net in a horizontal position. Never weigh fish vertically as this puts strain and stretch on a fish used to the support of water pressure. Weighing fish vertically can cause spine and other injuries to the fish. The Boga Grip is still used to control the fish, but never hold the fish in an unsupported vertical position from the Boga Grip. Hold fish horizontally while photographing and then quickly return them to the water. Take time to fully revive the fish and release it in shallow water (one foot or so). A tired fish that is not fully revived is very vulnerable to predators such as dolphins and piranhas.

PEACOCK HABITS AND ANGLING HINTS

- Like largemouth bass, peacocks often prefer “structure” of some sort. Rocks, fallen logs, points and sand bars are hiding places for baitfish, so this is where the peacock will usually lurk. Of course, you should always heed the guide’s recommendations on where to cast.
- Peacocks often burst into a feeding frenzy as they roam about in small schools searching for baitfish. When this situation is encountered, get your fly in front of the feeding fish as soon as possible. The sooner you can cast to them after they’ve been spotted, the better your chance of a hookup. Peacocks are greedy and highly competitive schooling fish. Always cast a free fly right next to any hooked fish. Another peacock—attracted by the commotion—will almost always be close by. If no strikes result, fish the surrounding area thoroughly.
- Novice peacock anglers tend to set the hook too fast when fishing topwater poppers or flies. Often peacocks will just slap at the fly to stun it, then come back around and firmly grab it on the second pass. It’s hard to remember at first, but don’t set the hook on the strike. If you can’t see the popper or fly after about one second, drop your rod tip and set the hook with your stripping hand.
- If the fish doesn’t take the fly on the first strike, keep it moving. If you are patient, the fish will usually come up and hit the fly a second or third time. If he loses interest, quickly cast a different fly. This often elicits another strike.
- Never try and “horse” a big peacock—and don’t underestimate his power. If a big fish is headed for structure, apply side pressure to the rod trying to “steer” the fish in another direction. If you crank your drag down too tight, they’ll almost always snap the line, or pull off. If a fish does make it into cover, don’t give up. Give a little slack and wait for the boat to spook the fish out of its hiding place—they’ll often untangle themselves. When a fish comes to the boat, never assume it’s ready to give up. Always keep a high rod tip and a loose drag to absorb last minute runs.
- Fly color doesn’t seem as important as fly shade. If it is bright out, use a light-colored fly. Dark shades are more productive in low light conditions.

TACKLE, CLOTHING & EQUIPMENT

FLY FISHING TACKLE

The aggressive jungle species are well suited to fly fishing. At least two 9- or 10-weight rods are recommended. Temple Fork Outfitters Professional Series II and Mangrove Series are good choices. Reels should have a smooth drag, hold at least 100 yards of backing, and be spooled with a weight-forward, bass-taper floating line or clear sink-tip line such as Teeny Flats Line/Clear Tip or Rio Tropical Outbound Short/Clear Tip. Bring a 200-300 grain fast sink-tip line for deeper water. Use 40 to 60-pound monofilament for leader/tippet material.

Flies—a mixture of 40-80 minnow pattern flies and 6-12 poppers

Rainey's Bubblehead Poppers (topwater)	2 to 4/0	red, white, yellow, chartreuse, blue or combinations
Minnow, deceiver and Clouser patterns (underwater) (CF Baitfish, Clouser/Kreh's Half & Half, Ehler's Gator Done, Flashtail Whistler, Big Fish Deceiver, etc.)	2 to 4/0	chartreuse/white, blue/white, red/white, orange/white, yellow/white or combinations, all with flash

Flies can be ordered from Feather-Craft Fly Fishing (800) 659-1707 or http://www.feather-craft.com/weecs.php?store=feacraft&action=category_view&target=051. Please order well in advance of your departure.

—PLEASE NOTE—

For aircraft safety purposes, please pack in medium-size soft duffel bags. The weight in the charter plane must be distributed in the various compartments of the plane. There is a strictly enforced 35 pound weight restriction on luggage (including checked luggage, rods, reels, lures and any small carry on). The camp has daily laundry service, so lots of clothes are not necessary.

HELPFUL HINTS

Daily laundry service is available at the camp.

Benadryl in a spray bottle comes in handy for the occasional insect bite or sting.

Get to the airport plenty early on your day of departure. You will have spent a lot of money on the trip, so start off on the right foot. Carry some bills in small denominations for tips, airport meters, snacks, etc.

As mentioned earlier, take a photocopy of the photo page of your passport, in case you lose the original. The copy will greatly facilitate the process of securing a new one.

Plan for rain. Always take a raincoat and always take it with you on each outing. If it doesn't rain, they make an excellent outer shell for cool mornings.

Pack sensibly. Use soft-sided luggage and take only as much clothing as you will need. Always take your passport, airline tickets, medications, camera equipment and valuables in a carry on such as a backpack or small valise.

Bandannas protect your neck against the sun, and they work well as an emergency head cover if you misplace your hat. Bring two pairs of sunglasses.
